CALLS AMERICA'S FUTURE MAIN ISSUE

Barry Cheered By 3,500 In Bucks

By JIM STANTON and PAUL ALTAIRE
Courier-Times Staff Writers

Sen. Barry Goldwater invaded Bucks County this morning and told a cheering, partisan crowd of 3,500 persons that there is a misunderstanding among the people about the election issue.

Goldwater, speaking at the Warminster Shopping Plaza on Street and York Roads, just minutes after his chartered Boeing 707 jet landed at nearby Willow Grove Naval Air Station, said even many in the news media have misunderstood the issue.

"That issue," said the Arizona senator, "is a simple one.

"What kind of America are we going to have five, 10 or 20 years from now? What kind of America are we going to leave our children?"

Goldwater said he would explore this topic more fully in Washington, later today at an annual conference of United Press International Editors and publishers.

Goldwater, who was introduced by Congressman Willard S. Curtin, also declared that "minority groups are running this country."

Pressure Tactics

The Republican Presidential candidate, making his first visit to Bucks County in his nationwide campaign, said, "I am referring to all minority groups that operate through paid lobbyists or use political pressure tactics."

Goldwater drew cheers from the crowd when he remarked: "I don't believe for one moment that the American people have accepted a centralized government."

He said 95 per cent of Americans are the forgotten American who "haven't squeaked very loud."

Don't Like It"

Goldwater said there is a concentration of power in Washington and "Americans don't like it."

The senator also hit out again at the Supreme Court and said that many of the court's findings are not based on law, but rather, that it bases its decisions on "what it feels should be right."

Goldwater drew an outburst of laughter from the crowd by his deft handling of a group of teenage hecklers riding piggyback and carrying Johnson and Humphrey signs.

"Hiding In Cellar"

Goldwater, at one point in his speech, looked over in the direction of the youths and said, "I thought I heard Bobby Baker back there but I guess he's hiding in the cellar of the White House."

Goldwater, who explained that his wife was not with him because she was attending "Peggy Day" in her honor in Muncie, Ind., lauded Congressman Curtin and Sen. Hugh Scott and asked Bucks Countians to return them to office.

Speaking of Gov. Scranton, campaigning in Connecticut today, Goldwater said he had been Scranton's commanding officer in the Air Force, and still is, since they are both in the reserves. He then added, "I wish I could get Bill promoted."

Goldwater getting back to the issues of the campaign, said, "I don't believe the principles of this country have changed although we have grown to nearly 200,000,000."

COLDER TONIGHT

Touch Of Winter Frosts L. Bucks

According to the calendar, there are still 68 shopping days till Christmas.

But early - morning risers in Lower Bucks felt Christmas was here as they were greeted by light frost and near-freezing temperatures.

A massive surge of polar air brought an early touch of winter to Bucks County and the weatherman says we may get an even colder shot tonight.

The Trenton Weather Bureau reported a low of 38 degrees at 7:20 a.m. — marking the coldest reading in the area since last April 27 when the mercury also dipped to 38.

Widespread frost was reported throughout the county. The season's first frost may wind up as a damaging one since it killed growing plants throughout the area.

The thermometer made a rapid rise beneath sunny skies before noon and was expected to reach a high around 60 degrees. At 3 p.m. the thermometer reading was 59.

Tonight, the mercury is expected to plunge to between 35-40 degrees as another cold front moves in behind last night's polar air.

Today's low of 38 fell short of the record 34 set on Oct. 6, 1958. Tomorrow's mark of 37, set on Oct. 7, 1954, may go by the boards, the weatherman cautions.

Fair skies are forecast for tomorrow and Thursday with warmer temperatures in the 60s.

Sub - freezing temperatures were recorded this morning in Scranton and Wilkes - Barre, where it was 30 degrees, and at Layton in North Jersey where the mercury dipped to 27.

Other sub - seasonal temperature readings included 38 at Atlantic City, 32 at Allentown, 37 at Harrisburg, 32 at Pittsburgh, 37 in Philadelphia and 40 at New York City.

Snow flurries swept the Great Lakes and northern Appalachians. Houghton Lake in north central Michigan reported one inch of snow on the ground today.

Icy winds drove the temperatures to near freezing across the upper Midwest and New England shortly after sundown yesterday. Temperatures dipped into the 30s southward into Arkansas and Tennessee with frost forecast as far south as Georgia.

In contrast to the cold weather, fair and warm air blanketed the Far West. The mercury climbed into the 90s as far north as Oregon yesterday.

On Royal Tour

Good Evening!

P.W. Batting for G.G.G.

Got your anti-freeze yet?

Well, it didn't really turn that cold last night.But pretty soon Jack Frost will let loose with a high, hard one and it's best to be forewarned.

And if you haven't been up in the mountains yet to see the flaming foliage, now is the time. It's the grandest of all Nature's grandeur.

Her Majesty, the Queen of England, is in Canada today, despite the warnings of possible violence from the lunatic fringe.

There's an example of accepting responsibility and all that goes with it. Royalty has its privileges but the responsibilities certainly outweigh those privileges.

Whaddaya know. No baseball results this morning, no point in looking at the standings. They won't change from yesterday.

Tomorrow the Yanks take their first step toward another world championship. Don't pay any attention to what you read here yesterday; the boss is in Washington today and we might as well set him straight in advance.

The trouble with taking another man's advice is that you wind up making his mistakes

Be sure you're in the groove, not in a rut.

And drive carefully.

Good News On Weather

Threats Brushed Aside By Queen

CHARLOTTETOWN, Prince Edward Island (UPI) — Queen Elizabeth, who appears ready to brush aside with charm threats from Quebec superatist-extremists, today had another danger to her Canadian tour removed—by the weather man.

The Queen, who makes her first public appearance in this island capital today, got the good word from the Maritime Weather Office that Hurricane Hilda will not strike here in any force.

A special telegram was sent to the royal yacht Britannia late last night informing the Queen the hurricane-turned-tropical-storm, once expected to bring heavy rain and winds of 60 miles an hour to the island, has blown out to sea.

The storm, the weatherman says, will be 120 miles out at sea and Charlottetown will now receive only light showers this evening and light winds.

The day will begin for the Queen with her first public speech — a brief reply to remarks by Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and Premier Walter Shaw—on a dias outside the $6 million buildings donated to the province by the rest of Canada to mark the 100th anniversary of the first meeting that led to confederation.

The Queen arrived Monday and almost immediately established an unexpected air of relaxed informality that melted the edge of the most massive security arrangements in Canadian history.

Hope For Settlement Soon At Trenton Plant

GM, Union Talk And Pickets Walk

It may be Monday or Tuesday of next week before striking members of Local 731, United Auto Workers, return to their jobs at General Motors; Ternstedt Division.

This was the word received this morning from Michael Demech, chairman of the union negotiating team, as the strike over local issues continues at the Trenton plant. The national strike was settled yesterday.

End Of Week

A company spokesman said, however, that management is looking forward to ending the dispute by the end of this week. He said the two sides met until 5 p.m. yesterday and that management is prepared to meet as long as necessary to end the strike which is now in its second week.

Demech said the members of his negotiating team are prepared to continue today's bargaining session" into the early hours of the morning in an attempt to wrap this up as soon as possible." Once agreement is reached by the negotiators, he said, a special meeting of the 4,200 members will be called to ratify each issue.

Nearly 40 issues separate union and management negotiators locally, Demech said. Job classifications and seniority rights, safety factors, general working conditions and local implications of the General Motors' bonus plan are among the main issues, according to Demech.

According to the company, only three or four major issues separate the two sides.

Yesterday, in what the company spokesman called "a show of muscle," pickets turned away salaried employes who all last week had been permitted to enter the plant. About half the 700 salaried personnel had been turned away before the company was able to get the picket line opened through calls to Detroit to national officers of the UAW. This was about 9:30 a.m. according to the company spokesman.

Permitted To Cross

All was normal this morning with salaried employes permitted to cross. Only the Parkway Ave. gate was picketed as the other three gates have been kept locked since the outset of the strike.

Demech said that once the local issues are settled representatives of every union bargaining team will go to Detroit to vote on the national contract.

'With Reason And Restraint'

Johnson Says Voters To Continue Peace Quest

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson said today he felt certain the voters would choose next month "to continue their quest for peace, with reason and restraint."

Johnson spoke briefly before a chilled, breakfastime crowd at a rally in nearby Alexandria, Va., as his wife started a Southern campaign tour of her own.

Johnson, ready to embark on his longest trip of the campaign, said that "never before have the American people been asked to make such a radical departure" from current policies. He did not mention the name of his GOP opponent, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, however.

Johnson said he planned during a 10-state tour running into next week to talk "about the proud record" of the Democratic administration of the last four years.

"And I'm not going to tear down any person or any group in doing that," he said.

Johnson took his wife to Washington's Union Station and rode with her in her campaign train, the "Lady Bird Special," across the Potomac River to Alexandria.

After seeing his wife off, Johnson returned to the White House for a busy day on foreign and domestic matters as well as a political visit with "scientists for Johnson" and lunch with "businessmen for Johnson."

He flies to Raleigh tonight to rejoin Mrs. Johnson after her first day of whistle stop appearances on his behalf. Johnson is scheduled to speak in the Reynolds Coliseum on the Raleigh campus of the University of North Carolina.

Afterward, the First Lady and the President intend to follow separate paths in politicking across the country this week.

Johnson plans to return to Washington late this evening. He leaves Wednesday morning on a six-day tour through the Midwest, the South and Far West. Mrs. Johnson's train is bround for New Orleans Friday after stops in the Carolinas, Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi.

The President Wednesday added Peoria and Springfield, Ill., and Nashville, Tenn., to a campaign journey which will take him into states where Democratic victories are still doubtful.

To Levittown Shopping Center

Humphrey Coming Saturday At 11 A.M.

Democrats, hopeful of capturing the Eight Congressional District from Republican Willard S. Curtin this election, are bringing one of their "big guns" into Bucks County Saturday.

He is Democratic Vice Presidential nominee Hubert H. Humphrey, who is scheduled to make an address at 11 a.m. in the Levittown Shopping Center.

"Hubert Humphrey is coming here at the specific request of Ralph Samuel's brother, Donald," Milton Berkes, a veteran campaigner himself, said yesterday. Samuel is opposing Curtin in the election. Berkes said that Donald, a New York stockbroker, met recently with Humphrey in that city.

"Our own polls indicate that the race is going to be a close one," Berkes said. He said the poll is not yet completed - and declined to give any specific findings until it is finished. The poll is being conducted by a private firm.

Humphrey will fly into North Philadelphia Airport at 10:30

No matter how the election turns out, you could be our next President.

Levittown Woman Hurt

A Levittown woman was injured last night in a two-car accident in which one of the drivers was charged with driving under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

Mrs. Patricia Brown, 25, of 78 North Park Drive, was treated at Lower Bucks County Hospital for injuries of the thigh.

She was riding in a car operat by her husband, George 25.

Brown's car, Bristol Township police said, was involved in a collision on Mill Creek Road at Edgely Ave. at 7:55 p.m. with an auto operated by Patrick M. Hannon Jr., 31, of 11 Greystone Lane, Greenbrook, Levittown.

Hannon, after being pronounced unfit to drive following a sobriety test at the hospital, was released in $500 bail by Justice of the Peace Rene J. Tritschler, Croydon, for a hearing at 8 p.m. Friday.

water greeters at the shopping plaza, directly across the road from the new twin buildings of the Bishop Wood High School, were about two dozen "Barry Girls" from Neshaminy High School and from Pennridge High School in Perkasie.

Had Parental Consent

Before Goldwater arrived, the groups explained that they had permission from their schools to attend, as long as they had brought notes from their parents.

About two dozen persons were on the speakers platform, including Myron W. Harris, Bucks County Republican chairman; Craig Truax, state Republican chairman, formerly from Bucks County; Lt. Gov. Raymond P. Shafer; Congressman Curtin; Margaret S. Knowlen, vice chairman of the Bucks County Republican party; and John S. Renninger, a Newtown attorney and candidate for assembly in the first district.

Warms Up Crowd

Renninger "warmed up" the crowd before the Goldwater entourage arrived, acting as master of ceremonies.

Also on the speakers platform were Bucks County Commission Chairman John J. Bodley, who this morning, for the first time since the campaign started, endorsed Goldwater; and GOP State Representative Alan D. Williams, who said he came because he was interested in hearing what Sen. Goldwater had to say.

Warminster Township Police Chief Paul R. Brennan and about 45 other law enforcement officers were on duty during the senator's visit.

Schedule Cut

These included police officers from Warminster and Upper Southampton Township; state police, Bucks County deputy sheriffs and county detectives.

Goldwater left Warminster and headed south to the Casa Conti Restaurant in Glenside, where he was to address another crowd.

Rights Law Before Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The first test of the 1964 civil rights law rested with the Supreme Court today following arguments on the right of Congress to gear the statute to interstate commerce.

An Atlanta motel and a Birmingham restuarant started the lawsuits which brought twin cases to the high court for decision.

Because the parties in the Birmingham case have 10 days to file additional briefs, no ruling can be expected sooner. But the court is expected to act with promptness so that the government can be guided in carrying out the anti-discrimination provisions.

Two decision Mondays, Oct. 19 and 26 occur before the national elections on Nov. 3.

Only the controversial public accommodations section — or Title II of the civil rights law —was involved. This is the provision requiring motels and certain restaurants to serve Negroes.

The law was defended in arguments before the Supreme Court Monday by Solicitor General Archibald Cox.

It was attacked by attorney Robert MCD. Smith of Birmingham on behalf of Ollie's Barbecue, a local eating place; and by attorney Moreton Rolleston Jr. of Atlanta, owner of the Heart of Atlanta Motel, who argued his own case.

Humphrey To Be Clock Watcher

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey may become a clock watcher.

Humphrey placed his watch on the speaker's podium during his address last night to keep track of the time. He left the podium during the applause that followed his speech.

When he returned to get his watch, it was gone.

More Arrested In Miss. Crackdown

By United Press International

A crackdown against racial violence in Mississippi continued yesterday with announcement that a former Army demolition expert, a millionaire's son and five other persons had been arrested.

The arrests bring to eleven the number of persons taken into custody in the McComb, Miss., area by FBI agents and local officers since last Thursday.

All eleven are charged in connection with Negro church burnings or with bombing Negro homes. A wave of such incidents has occurred in Mississippi, particularly in southwest Mississippi, since civil rights workers stepped up a desegregation drive at the beginning of the summer.

Among those arrested Monday were Sterling (Bubber) Gillis, 35, son of Narman Gollis Sr., a wealthy oil investor and landowner, and Emergy Allen Lee, 35, a former Army demolitions expert who is now a paint contractor.

The FBI accused Lee of supplying the weapons and bombs and said they found 15 dynamite and black powder bombs, hand grenades and other weapons cached on property owned by Lee.

Also arrested were Murphy J. Duncan, 44, a supply store clerk; Hilton Dunaway, 36; John Paul Westbrook, 20; Charles Avery Womack, 26; and Gerald Lawrence, 21. All were from McComb.

They, like the four men arrested earlier, were charged with unlawful use of explosions. A grand jury was empaneled Monday in Magnolia, Miss., to hear charges against all the men.

Peronists Wait For deGaulle

CORDOBA, Argentina (UPI) —Police and troops massed in this west Argentine motor-making center today to curb possible disorders when President Charles de Gaulle stops off on his way to Paraguay.

Labor supporters of ousted ex-President Juan D. Peron swarmed here from Buenos Aires Monday night. Among them were many who helped to transform Saturday's welcome for De Gaulle into a riotous clamor for the return of Peron.

A large area around the airport, officially declared a "military zone," was reserved for troops and police. Three anti-aircraft batteries, 15 fighter planes and an armed helicopter were standing by to prevent leaflet drops in the vicinity of the airport.

Thieves Hit Bar, Service Station

Bristol Township police are investigating two burglaries which took place last night in the vicinity of Routes 13 and 413.

James Rhodes Jr. of 3505 Third Ave., Cornwells Heights, reported over $300 in cash and merchandise was taken from his Gulf service station, located on Route 13, next to Robert Hall Clothes.

Thieves also entered a barbershop and tavern at 1320 Newport Road, police reported.

George Eill of Philadelphia, owner of the barbershop, reported $25 in shaving supplies had neen taken. Entrance was gained through a front door, police said.

Anthony E. Simons of 127 S. Eastfield Ave., Feasterville, owner of Tony and Gay's Bar, said thieves entered his establishment but took only a "good luck" dollar bill.

Detectives James Dunn and Jack Haines said burglars broke a rear side window to gain entrance to the Route 13 service station. Broken glass outside the window was left in a neat pile on an old upholstered chair which police said had been used to gain access to the window.

Rhodes reported $25 in change had been taken along with $200 worth of ignition supplies, $18 worth of tire tubes, $40 worth of wiper blades, a case of masking tape valued at $12.80, a half case of tire patches valued at $3.50, a carton of sun glasses valued at $12, one headlight and one flashlight.

Rhodes told police it was the fourth time in the past two months his station had been burglarized.

Soviet Charges 4 Embassy Men Spying On Siberia Trip

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union admitted today its agents searched three U.S. military attaches and a British colleague in a Siberian hotel raid. But it said it acted because the men were spying while traveling on the trans-Siberian railroad.

A Soviet Foreign Ministry note rejected U.S. and British protests against the forcible nighttime search of the attaches in their hotel rooms in Jhabarovsk last month.

A strong Soviet counter-protest charged the Allied diplomats engaged in espionage. It warned they may be declared persona non grata and be expelled from the Soviet Union.

The four U.S. and British attaches are now in Tokyo.

The men involved were U.S. Army attache George A. Aubrey of Annapolis, Md., assistant Army attache Lt. Col. Karl R. Liewer of Osmond, Neb., Maj. James F. Smith of Meers, Okla., and British assistant naval attache Lt. Cmdr. Laville.

They said Soviet officials burst into their hotel rooms at Khabarovsk the night of Sept. 28-29 and searched their possessions, seizing cameras, film and a transistor radio.

All four men are now in Tokyo.

The Soviet news agency Tass today said the Moscow Foreign Ministry replied to the Allied protests in notes to the U. S. and British embassies here charging that the Allied attaches "engaged in spying."

The incident was the seventh known time that Soviet authorities have interfered with or mistreated Western military attaches Since 1963.

On Sept. 28, the four attaches were in the Soviet far east city of Khabarovsk, having just completed a trip across the country on the Trans-Siberian Railway. They were heading from Moscow to Tokyo and Hong Kong.

They said Soviet officials burst into their hotel rooms, prevented them from getting out of bed, searched their possessions, and seized cameras, film, and a transistor radio.

The search was conducted "forcibly," the State Department said in Washington Monday, "despite their strong protests."

(The three American officers, who were allowed to continue their trip to Tokyo after the incident, were not available for comment in Tokyo. A U.S. Embassy spokesman confirmed only that they were there and would return to Moscow.)

Western attaches travel extensively in the Soviet Union as a regular part of their duties. As in the case of their Soviet counterparts stationed in Washington, these trips must be approved by the host government. Soviet authorities keep a close check on the attaches' movements.

UPI Editors Hear Faster Vote Returns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The American people will get faster and fuller returns on htis year's presidential election than ever before, a news executive said today.

H. Roger Tatarian, executive editor of United Press International, reported on election coverage plans at the opening session of the annual conference of UPI editors and publishers.

For the first time in history, he said, the nation's largest information media will pool their resources to count votes across the nation. Participating in the experimental joint election service will be UPI, Associated Press and the three television networks.

By cooperating instead of competing in the huge task of tabulating returns, Tatarian said, the news media will be able to provide "a saturation coverage that we have never seen before."

More than 130,000 persons will be working for the joint service on election night, Nov. 3. They will report on all senatorial, governorship and congressional contests as well as the presidential race.

No Vote Projection

Tatarian emphasized that the joint service will NOT engage in "projections" of votes, or in spotting and analyzing trends. It will simply relay raw vote counts to the participating networks and wire services. The vital task of interpreting the returns and reporting them to the public in a meaningful ocntext will be handled, as in the past, by experts of each member organization.

During their two-day conference at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, the UPI editors and publishers will hear talks by Republican presidential nominee Barry M. Goldwater (at 4 p.m. EDT today) and Democratic vice presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey (11 a.m. Wednesday).

They also will attend the world premiere tonight of a two-hour documentary film on the assassination of the late President John F. Kennedy. It is entitled "Four Days in November."

George G. Gray, editor of the Courier-Times and Sandy Oppenheimer, managing editor, are attending the UPI Editors session.

Defense—Government Was Misled

By Al Chester
Courier-Times Staff Writer

The jury in the conspiracy trial of the Pennsylvania Refuse Removal Association and four of its officers began deliberating at 11:45 this morning.

It did so after a lengthy — 1¾-hours — charge by Judge Alfred L. Luongo.

In his charge Judge Luongo told the jury of seven women and five men that "the case boils down to a single issue—credibility. Who is telling the truth? Who is more accurate?" He cited conflicting testimony by government and defense witnesses which, he said, the jury must resolve.

He further reminded the jury that the burden of proof is on the government and that it must establish its case "beyond any reasonable daubt."

Goverment "Misled"

Testimony in the trial in U.S. District Court, Phildelphia, ended yesterday after three weeks. In its closing arguments to the jury, the defense claimed that the government was "misled" into prosecuting the case.

Attorney Stanley Greenberg charged that "a dissident faction within the association, upset because it couldn't take control, misled the government — as it tried to mislead you — by exaggerating and twisting testimony ever so slightly to make it appear something sinister was going on."

"No Crime"

Greenberg said the four defendants were "guilty of no crime but trying to solve problems plaguing trash collectors." He said they tried to solve the main problem of raiding of each others' stops by trash men.

"Apparently they didn't succeed," he said.

"Who made up this dissident faction?" he asked, then proceeded to reel off a list of names, most of them government witnesses. He charged James Anthony, president of 20th Century Refuse Removal Co., Philadelphia, and the government's main witness, together with Al Cameron of Cameron Sanitary Landfill, Inc., Middletown Township wanted to take over the association or put it out of business.

"Now you have your motive," Greenberg stated. "Anthony wanted to take over the association, and tie in with the other faction."

Goes To Jury

The government has contended that the defendants — all officers of the association — violated the Sherman Antitrust Act by conspiring to fix prices, rig bids, allocate customers, impose penalties on members who raided other members' stops, and intimidate non members into joining the association.

Two of the defendants are Lower Bucks haulers, Salvatore Graziano, Bristol Borough, and Edwin S. Vile, Hulmeville. The others are Harry Coren, Philadelphia, and Arnold Graf, Glenside. The association is listed as a separate defendant in the indictment.

Raymond Cauley, head of the three - man government team prosecuting the case, told the jury yesterday that "fixing prices is an evil thing. If people can get together to do such things, it means you and I will pay higher prices."

Condition Serious

Expectant Mother Injured In Crash

A 20-year-old Levittown woman in her ninth month of pregnancy is in serious condition at St. Francis Hospital, Trenton, following a three-car collision on Route 1, near Woodbourne Road, this morning.

Mrs. Maureen A. Carriuola of 25 Red Brook Lane, Red Cedar Hill, was admitted with possible internal injuries. The couple reportedly moved into their home here last week.

On Route 1

Falls Township police said the accident occurred shortly after 9 a.m. when Robert E. Vanvranken Jr. 29, of 5 Lotus Lane, Trenton, stopped on the westbond lane of Route 1 opposite the Langhorne Speedway while a school bus was picking up passengers.

Vanvranken was taken to Lower Bucks County Hospital where he was treated for shock and released.

Both injured persons were taken to the hospitals by the Levittown - Fairless Hills Rescue Squad.

Bandits Hit Somerton Home

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) —The arrival of a visitor in the middle of a holdup didn't upset two badits who invaded the home of James Gilmour in the Somerton section late Monday.

One of the bandits politely met George Tranter, 48, at the front door and ushered him into the living room with a revolver.

5 Boys Held In Thefts

Five teenage boys have been apprehended by Bristol Township police in connection with a burglary spree dating back to August of 1961.

Juvenile Officer Edward Ward today disclosed that the boys are being questioned in connection with three house burglaries, a car theft, 34 smashed windows at the Ralph Waldo Emerson Elementary School, Levittown, and the theft of four canvas bags filled with candy.

The boys, three of whom are 14 years old, one 15 and the other 13, have been turned over to the custody of their parents. Police have indicated that others may be implicated in the spree.

Police said a neighbor saw three boys entering Benjamin Franklin Junior High School, Mill Creek Road, Levittown, Sunday. Patrolmen Aaron Kelton and Norman Stoner caught the trio leaving the school carrying the candy and bags which had been taken from the school store. Three other bags were left behind, police stated.

One of the house burglaries, Ward said, was committed in August of 1961.

Dept. Appeals Jury Decision

The Department of Highways of Pennsylvania is appealing a jury of view's assessment of damages for $1,500 to the property of George T. and Mary Krieger, 1548 Bristol Pike, Cornwells Heights.

The Commonwealth, represented by Samuel Snipes, on Friday filed a petition in the Prothonotary's Office, asking for a trial by jury to determine the damages.

A jury of view was appointed June 17, 1960, by Judge Edwin H. Satterthwaite composed of John B. Leedom, Joseph G. Park and Paul D. Fretz.

The Kriegers' property was damaged by the construction or widening of a highway along their land holdings.

Snipes said the jury of view's assessment was $1,500.

HARRISBURG (UPI) — Dr. John C. Richards, of Perkasie RD 1, Bucks County, has been appointed as a member of the board of trustees of Eastern State School and Hospital.

Richards, whose appointment was announced Monday by Gov. William W. Scranton, succeeds Rene J. Tritschler, of Croydon, whose term expired.

Three Dogs Claw Girl, 2

MIDDLETON, Mass. (UPI)—A 2-year-old girl was in fair condition today after being bitten, clawed and tossed around by three boxer dogs in the front yard of a neighbor's home.

Officials at Hunt Hospital in Danvers said Cynthia Mandalka, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mendalka Jr. suffered bites on her body, head and neck. The attack took place Monday.

All her clothing, except a sneaker, had been torn off by the dogs.

A neighbor, Mrs. Paige Campbell, heard the noise and drove off the dogs with a broom.

The child's mother Patricia, 26, said when she came out of the house "the dogs were tossing her (Cynthia) up in the air like a ball. She was covered with blood and her chest had been ripped open."

The girl underwent more than five hours of emergency surgery.

John Mendalka, the father, said it was the second time in two weeks one of his four children had been bitten by the dogs. His 5-year-old son John was given a tetanus shot, he was bitetn on the hand and said.

Farley Boycotts Board Again

Democratic Commissioner Walter S. Farley for the second straight week yesterday boycotted a meeting of the county salary board.

John J. Bodley, the chairman, and Joseph O. Canby, both Republicans, proceeded with the meeting in Bodley's office in the courthouse along with controller William R. Cameron, the fourth member of the board.

Farley claimed last week that he was at "a disadvantage" in Bodley's office and that the public was reluctant to attend a meeting there. His two fellow commissioners have refused his request to hold the meetings in the conference room across the hall.

Mrs. Scull was taken to the hospital by the Levittown-Fairless Hills Rescue Squad.

Going in Circles

By Larry Incollingo

"I think she's going to have a baby!"

Within seconds after the call Marion Dittman and Joe Fox, Bucks County Rescue Squad team, were on their way to take the expectant mother to the hospital.

As the sound of the ambulance's siren faded into the night other members of the squad continued stuffing coin cards into envelopes to be mailed out in the current fund drive.

The phone rang again.

"A woman is lying unconscious in the road . . . " and Dave Price noted the address on a pad by the phone.

Gene Fanini jumped into the driver's seat of another rig and aid women Shirley Bell and Barbara Stackhouse barely got the passenger side door shut and they were off to the rescue.

Dave sat by the phone. Another call could come in at any moment.

* * *

A voice came over the monitor. There was no more "think" in the matter of the baby — it was on its way, and the ambulance was dashing for Lower Bucks County Hospital in a race against the clock.

The stuffing of envelopes continued. But there was an air in the air. The expectancy in the air. The second rig should have reported in by this time.

There was no report. Somebody went to a vending machine in another part of the building and returned with a round of soft drinks.

The first ambulance returned. They had beaten the stork at his own game.

Gene's voice came over the monitor.

"Did anyone call back about this woman who's supposed to be lying in the street out here?"

No. No one had called back.

"There's another road with a similar name," came the voice over the monitor, "we'll check that."

* * *

The hour was growing late. The stuffing of envelopes went on, accompanied by small talk.

There was a squeal on the monitor. "We're coming in," it was Gene's voice, "we haven't been able to find anyone out here."

The crew came in. They had time for coffee and donuts before the phone rang again.

"Signal One." Dave called, (an accident) and another rig was rolling.

This is the Bucks County Rescue Squad. Ready, capable, selfless. Men and women, just like you and you and you, giving themselves, sacrificing pleasures, to give immediate aid to any and all who call.

'Welcomed' By Sen. Clark

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., today issued a tongue - in - cheek welcome to Goldwater on the latter's Pennsylvania campaign trip.

"I am happy to have him campaigning in Pennsylvania, happier about his visit, I suspect, than my Republican junior colleague, who does not seem to be able to extend an appropriate welcome to his candidate for President," Clark said in a statement through his Washington office.

He was referring to Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., who has voiced only lukewarm support for Goldwater.

Clark said "the people of Pennsylvania are intensely interested in this crucial election, and I ask Sen. Goldwater to take this opportunity to let them know where he stands on the issues of this campaign."

Missing From Parking Lot

FBI In Hunt For Kidnaped Toddler

LONGVIEW, Tex. (UPI)—The FBI Monday entered the hunt for 22-month-old Ricky Dale Crowder—feared kidnaped from his mother's car when she left him alone for a few minutes to shop in a drugstore.

The toddler disappeared Sunday night. At first it was hoped he had wandered off and would soon be found.

But as the hours passed, and a house-to-house search by hundreds of volunteers failed to turn up any trace of him, the hope faded.

Dale's mother, Mrs. Rex Crowder, 25, said the boy could walk, but was unable to open the car doors himself. There was also doubt the boy would have shut the doors again if he had got out by himself. All the car doors were closed when Mrs. Crowder returned.

She told police she remembered a 1949 or 1950 model blue car parked next to hers in the parking lot of the shopping center where Ricky disappeared.

She said she was in the drugstore about 6 or 7 minutes, and both Ricky and the blue car were gone when she returned.

Authorities checked dozens of cars fitting the description, but turned up no clues.

The FBI entered the case Monday at the request of city police. (Kidnaping is a federal crime.)

"It doesn't matter how he got where he is," said an FBI agent sent in from Tyler, Tex., "all I'm interested in is finding him."

Ricky was wearing only a T-shirt, diapers, and sandals. The temperature dropped into the 50s in east Texas Sunday night and was expected to go down to the low 40s Monday night.

'Deadbeat' Sum Reduced

Bucks County Deputy Sheriff Albert Cooney yesterday reported he has retrieved a total of $7,890 in back money owed the court in costs and support orders.

In a letter to the county commissioners, Cooney said he collected $981 in September.

Cooney was hired by the commissioners early last summer to crack down on deadbeats who have managed to duck payments over the years. Close to $200,000 is estimated outstanding. Since Cooney took over the job, several defendants have been jailed for contempt for failing to obey court orders.

Which Divide Christianity

Catholics Ask For Pardon For 'Sins'

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Ecumenical Council today united behind a plea for pardon from God and the Protestants for Catholic "sins" which may have helped divide Christianity.

The cardinals, archbishops, bishops and other ranking prelates in St. Peter's Basilica wholeheartedly endorsed a confessional statement which admits that "all of us have the responsibility in some way for the sins of disunity."

The vote in favor of the newly written passage in a council document on ecumenism was 2,076 - 92. The document is a charter of the hopes of the late Pope John XXIII for Christian unity.

In another vote, the council also approved by 1,872 - 292 a general directive which would allow Roman Catholics to attend religious ceremonies of other denominations and unite with other Christians in common prayers for unity.

The unexpectedly heavy vote against the proposal apparently came from council fathers who felt that the matter was left too much up to individual bishops rather than being put in the hands of national hierarchies.

Tshombe Under House Arrest

CAIRO, U.A.R. (UPI)—Congo Premier Moise Tshombe landed in Cairo today in defiance of official orders to keep him out. But he was soon under virtual house arrest.

Egyptian officials formally admitted the controversial African leader when he flew in before dawn on an Ethiopian commercial airliner after being barred from landing Monday.

He was escorted from the airfield to a guest palace in the Cairo suburb of Heliopolis.

Curtin: Appalachia Bill 'Sidetracked'

"In its rush to adjourn the Congress and get to the political campaigns, the Johnson administration sidetracked another bill of vital interest to every Pennsylvanian — the 'Appalachia' Bill. This is just another example of the calloused attitude of the Administration to the needs of another large segment of our population," Congressman Willard Curtin (R, Bucks-Lehigh) stated last night as he addressed the Levittown Lions at Glen Lake Inn.

The Appalachia Bill provided this expenditure of $1,060,000,000 to provide public works and economic development programs for the Appalachian region which stretches diagonally from Pennsylvania to Alabama.

"I am opposed to the theory of the 'Welfare State' but I recognize the responsibility of the Federal Government to step in and assist where dire need exists," Curtin said.

"These areas provided for in the Appalachia Bill are known to have a greater degree of unemployment and a lower per capita income than any comparable area in the U.S. In our land of plenty, special measures should be taken to correct such situations," Curtin continued.

"I am opposed to wasteful spending or the expenditure of government funds for political reasons. I pride myself on the fact that I consider legislation on its merits and never vote as a political hack or rubber stamp."

"In the case of Appalachia, the bill was necessary and desirable. It was in the interests of Pennsylvania and our country. It should have been pushed through the Congress instead of being pushed aside," Curtin concluded.

A Hot Summer: Water Use Proof

By SCOOP LEWIS
Courier-Times Staff Writer

It was a long, dry and hot summer.

This fact not only has been borne out by the lack of rainfall, but it's been further accented by the amount of water consumed by users of the Lower Bucks County Joint Municipal Authority's facilities.

John C. Cocordas, authority office manager, last night reported that during June, July and August of this year, Levittown homes used 47 million gallons more of excess water than for a similar three - month period in 1963.

Record Rainfall

Despite a record 24-hour rainfall last July 8, which produced 4.83 inches of rain, Lower Bucks experienced one of its driest summers. From June 1 to Aug. 31, we had only 9.13 inches of rain compared to the normal precipitation of 12.55 inches. August produced only .47 inches of rain.

The authority supplies water and sewage facilities to 18,445 homes in the Levittown area as well as to 404 commercial establishments, 23 churches, 21 schools and five Levittown Public Recreation Association swimming pools.

The authority, at its next meeting on Oct. 20, will receive bids on two phases of its $600,000 improvement program designed to expand water and sewer facilities in the Levittown area.

Bids will be received on multi-media filters for the water filtration plant and for airlift equipment to be used in the sewage treatment plant.

The conversion of eight filters to the water filtration plant, costing about $135,000, will increase the capacity of the plant from eight million to 12 million gallons daily.

At last night's authority meeting, plans and specifications for new elevated water storage tank were sent out to bidders. The tank, costing approximately $230,000, will be erected on the Newportville - Fallsington Road, near the Levittown Lanes bowling alleys. Bids are expected to be received by the authority on Nov. 2.

Paul X. Blattler, managing engineer, last night reported on the progress of the installation of a 20-inch water main at Five Points, Levittown, and a 16-inch main between the Oaktree Hollow and Goldenridge sections of Levittown.

Pa. Seeks Redistricting

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Pennsylvania today asked the U.S. Supreme Court to let the state legislature redistrict itself in accordance witha Sept. 29 ruling of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court.

The state court's decision interpreted certain sections of the Pennsylvania constitution dealing with representation in both branches of the legislature. Then it ordered a reshuffle by Sept. 1, 1965 at the latest.

Earlier, on April 29, a three judge court in Philadelphia handed down a conflicting ruling on the same subject. State Atty. Gen. Walter E. Alessandroni appealed it to the U.S. Supreme Court, where it is now marked for early action, possibly next Monday.

Alessandroni asked the court in a supplementary statement to nullify the April 29 judgment but to retain jurisdiction of the case.

Meantime, he said, the General Assembly can go ahead under the decision of the state's own highest tribunal.

The state court took into account the U.S. Supreme Court's decision of last term that both houses of the state legislature must be based on population at the earliest possible time.

"Primary responsibility for the fashioning of a representational framework belongs to the General Assembly which, by virtue of its composition, experience, and facilities is the most competent and appropriate body to perform this task," the statement said.

Reds May Call Off Pass Pact

BERLIN (UPI) — Communist East Germany today threatened to call off its border pass agreement with West Berlin because of the death of a Communist border guard Monday in the tunnel through which 57 refugees escaped.

The East German Communist party newspaper Neues Deutschland charged that West Berlin "bandits" killed Cpl. Egon Schultz as the tunnel was discovered early Monday.

But Western witnesses said neither the refugees nor the West Berliners who had helped them build the tunnel were armed. There was speculation Schultz was killed by mistake by another border guard, or had tried to flee himself.

Neues Deutschland warned that West Berlin would have to choose between "continuation of the pass agreement or a continuation of the clashes and bloody provocations on the state border."

The agreement was concluded only last week. It provides for four visiting periods a year for West Berliners with relatives in East Berlin. About 800,000 were expected to use the Communist passes.

Police Probe Boro Knifing

Bristol police today will attempt to lift the mystery surrounding the stabbing early Saturday morning of a 41-year-old Bristol man.

Andrew P. Plevakas,who was admitted to Lower Bucks County Hospital Saturday with stab wounds of the left chest and right abdomen, will be discharged from the hospital sometime today. Police will be waiting for him.

The circumstances surrounding the stabbing are unknown, and attempts by police Saturday to get Plevakas to reveal who assaulted him met with failure.

Plevakas was picked up by Sgt. Gasper Favoroso about 5 a.m. Saturday at 1152 Beaver St., the residence of Louis Collela, where he rents a room on the second floor.

According to police, Collela went to the second floor shortly before five o'clock to investigate a disturbance. He told police he found Plevakas in a hallway arguing with other roomers. Plevakas, he told police, was covered with blood.

Plevakas said his wounds were the result of Collela striking him with a chair, police reported.

Woman Injured In Accident

A woman received minor injuries in an automobile collision last night in Cornwells Heights.

Mrs. Margaret Drabick, 40, of 6156 Mulberry St., Philadelphia, complained of a whiplash injury but refused local treatment and said she would be treated by her own physician.

She was a passenger in a car operated by Edward J. Michalak, 36, of 3244 Teesdale St., Philadelphia, which was in a collision with a car driven by Michael L. Stein, 19, of 1104 Park Ave., Eddington.

According to Bensalem Township police, the collision occurred at 9:05 p.m. on Hulmeville Road, at Corry Ave. Damage to Stein's car was estimated at $350 and at $250 to Michalak's vehicle.

Supervisors Appoint Him To Old Term

By BEN McELVEEN
Courier-Times Staff Writer

Stephen M. Segal, who is presently chairman of the Lower Makefield Industrial Development Commission, last night was appointed a member of the township Planning Commission.

He was named to fill the unexpired term of Theodore Myers, whose term continues until 1966. The Lower Makefield Board of Supervisors appointed Segal at its regular semi-monthly meeting in the municipal building.

Segal of 2321 Lakeshore Drive will continue to serve as a representative of the planning commission on the industrial board, Supervisor Bill Mackensen said.

Quit On Transfer

Myers had resigned his post when he was transferred out of the area.

Mrs. Gertrude Levy, Democratic committeewoman, questioned the board about Segal's qualifications. She has conducted a long campaign to have the township's all-Republican-controlled board name at least one Democrat to a township post. So far, she has been unsuccessful.

The supervisors also accepted with regreat the resignation of Peter F. Campbell Jr., former chairman of the supervisors who quit when he was transferred by U.S. Steel to Naples, Italy.

His term is expected to be filled within 30 days by the two remaining supervisors, Bill Mackensen and Russell Carter.

Bid On Lights Awarded

The supervisors also awarded a bid for installation of warning school lights in front of the Makefield Elementary School, to the Morris Electric Co. of Levittown.

A request from the school came several months ago for the warning lights, which will be automatic and will be in operation only when school is in session.

Mackensen said that Morris Electric was the lowest of three bidders, with its offer to install the lights at $1,090. The other bids were $1,249 from Anco and $1,310 from Chimera Electric.

Lights will be installed at each end of school property on Makefield Road.

Other Matters

In other matters, the supervisors gave final approval to Stony Hill Manor, a four-lot development on Big Oak Road at Stony Hill Road.

Approval was granted on the condition that the developer, John Ray, lives up to the specifications of the township engineer.

In answering a question from the audience, Supervisor Carter said that no action had yet been taken on a request for warning lights to be placed at Edgewood and Makefield Roads, a dangerous intersection where many accidents have occurred.

Question On Installation

Another question from the floor concerned why the supervisors had not recently awarded the installation contract for the new base police radio.

Supervisor Mackensen said the township had not awarded it because they felt they could get the work done for less than the bid figure, originally made for $270 from Motorola. The supervisors already awarded contracts for police car radios and the base station to tie-in with a Bucks-wide network. The county is expected to install the car radios.

Carter acted as temporary chairman last night.

New GOP Youth Club Forms In Morrisville

A newly organized Morrisville Teenage Republicans, or TARS as it will be known, will hold it's first general meeting tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. in room 206 of the Stockham Building, Bridge St. and Pennsylvania Ave. A social hour will follow.

The group has been organized in the belief that young people, even those beneath the voting age, should make their presence felt politically. Sponsoring TARS in Morrisville is the Morrisville Republican Club. Similar groups are organizing thoughout the state with A. John Smither as Chairman of all Pennsylvania TARS.

Temporary Chairman for TARS in this area, Tom Owens, will preside at Wednesday night's meeting. On the agenda is the election of permanent officers and the presentation of a set of By-Laws for the approval of the group.

By-Laws To Be OK'd

If approved, the By-Laws will open TARS membership to all Morrisville teen-agers 14-18 and and associate membership to all 13 year olds, and to teen-agers 13-18 from the surrounding area such as Lower Makefield and Yardley.

TARS is seeking members from the vast group of responsible young people who are sympathetic to the cause of Republicanism. Those interested may contact any TARS member or phone William Potashnick at CY 5-1215.

Applications are now being taken for "Goldwater Girls." The girls will appear at political rallies, parades, etc. Interested TARS shoud contact Mrs. William Potashnick who is handling arrangements.

TARS' members will avail themselves to local Republican-connected political groups for door-to-door campaign material distributions, rallies, parades and office work. Requests for work parties should be directed to TARS advisor, William Potashnick, CY 5-1215, a spokesman said.

Television In Review

After The First Commercial Everything Was Downhill

By RICK DU BROW
United Press International

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — NBC-TV Monday night unveiled three new half-hour situation comedies in the disguise of a so-called 90-minute series: "90 Bristol Court." The idea is that the shows are linked by a common setting, a Southern California apartment court. If you can think of anything more sadistic than three situation comedies in a row, you are a born program packager.

The opening half-hour is entitled "Karen," and is about a teen-ager who is old enough to drive and date, who looks like a sure bet for a beauty queen title, and gives the impression of having once read the foreward of a book, maybe. Locally, at least, the opener was spiced by being preceded by a commercial plugging the movie "A House is Not a Home." After that, everything was downhill. The premiere concerned how the young lady picked up the wrong blind date from Italy at Los Angels Airport. As the famous cook, Bobo Lewis, a fine professional comedienne, does her best to get in some tart licks. Other than that: strictly Hicksville.

The second series is entitled "Harris Against The World", and stars another highly accomplished performer, Jack Klugman, as a soft-hearted movie studio employee who has problems fighting the "system" and is not exactly an overpowering husband or father. Klugman, you may remember, won last season's best-acting Emmy for his performance in an episode of "The Defenders" as an actor who could not get work because of past political affiliations.

Although the idea of "Harris Against The World" is hardly exciting, the premiere had a good many funny moments but almost all of them belonged to a guest, not a regular —the wonderful kook whose name is Hope Holiday. She portrayed a dumb, inefficient typist with such comic efficiency that one wondered why NBC didn't tie up her and Klugman for a series, put them in their proper element and drop everything else connected with "Harris, etc."

The third show is called "Tom, Dick and Mary," and tells of a young intern, his new bride and their boarder, who is a colleague of the husband. The premiere was a sad mess, full of people who look pretty much like all the other people on situation comedies. All hands went down ingloriously in a concoction of goo and childish humor that centered around the newlyweds' desire to be alone, which resulted in their boarder being mistakenly given an apartment also occupied by the wife of a jealous young intern. Since the alleged setting of "90 Bristol Court" is Beverly Hills, Calif., I guess you could call this neo-realism.

"Bridge Writers' Choice 1964" includes hands contributed by bridge writers from all over the world.

Most of them are deadly serious, but Ewart Kempson managed to poke some fun at himself. It seems that when Ewart played the hand in a team match, he took the first diamond trick with the ace, drew trumps, took the heart finesse and made four odd. This was all that could be made, but Ewart was not satisfied with his play of the hand.

He felt there should have been some safer way to play it. Certainly he should have ducked the first diamond. Then assuming a trump or diamond return he could draw trumps the same way, ruff out his last diamond, lead a heart to the king and finesse dummy's jack of hearts. This way he would have been sure of his contract unless East started with four hearts to the queen.

He showed the hand to Mrs. Kempson as an example of an almost perfect safety play. She looked at it awhile and said, "I would have ducked the first diamond and continued the same line of play until playing the king of hearts. Then I would have led a club toward dummy and played the jack."

Ewart points out that his wife's play would make the contract against any combination of cards once trumps broke evenly.
